Note	I wish to record a submission in agreement with the submission of Robert Mulryan for changes to the design of the proposed new graveyard for Annaghdown. While a proposed new graveyard is very welcome, I am in full agreement with the sentiment of others who have made submissions that the current design will cause unnecessary traffic congestion and introduce a risk around access for those who live and farm land on the breen. I also feel that there is little in the design which indicates that adequate thought has been given to different modes of transport (bicycle\ on foot) to cater for an aging population. A footpath linking to the existing graveyard would be a good addition. Has there been any consultation with the wider community through surveys\focus groups or a public meeting prior to getting to this stage of the design?
